

FRENCH'S SCHEMES SAID TO INVOLVE 50 MILLIONS

"WIZARD" SAYS TRANSACTIONS NOT DOUBTFUL

Paints Himself as a Financial Moses to Authorities

GET CONFESSIONS

Details of One of French's Most Spectacular Deals Revealed.

Chicago, August 25.—The cauldron of frenzied finance, of which Charles W. French and "Honest John" Worthington are said to have been the "master minds," boiled over today. Federal agents unearthed an entirely new list of alleged conspirators, involving twelve more prominent business men of the middle west. This list was found among the personal papers of French confiscated in Milwaukee along with $1,000,000 in bonds. These papers also revealed that the alleged arch swindlers had used the names of such men as Henry Ford and H. J. Firestone, multi-millionaire auto manufacturers, in several of their alleged "wild cat schemes."

Chicago, August 25.—Charles W. French, known to his associates as a "financial wizard" and declared by federal officials to be the "greatest swindler of the century," sat in his cell here today and proclaimed his own "unquestioned integrity." Meanwhile, according to assistant U. S. District Attorney John V. Clinlin, the web of evidence that involves French and a score of his henchmen in questionable financial schemes that may reach the huge total of $50,000,000 was being woven tighter.

French painted himself a financial Moses who sought to lead ailing concerns out of the wilderness of business depression. He insisted all of his transactions were legal and blamed his troubles on a group of "powerful financiers" who resented his success in the flotation of huge business projects.

Confessions from two more of French's alleged associates, according to Clinlin, detailed methods by which more than thirty business firms were enticed into floating $20,000,000 in fake securities. The confessions were made by Elmer L. Gerber of Cleveland and Charles Strobel of Akron, Ohio. Most of the firms involved were said to be Ohio concerns.

Gerber and Strobel, Clinlin asserted, admitted that they had collected in the last three months, more than $15,000,000 in unsecured industrial paper for French. Although refusing to make known the names of the firms, federal officials revealed that the automobile concerns, lumber companies and dealers in rubber goods and chemicals were the chief victims.

Both Gerber and Strobel asserted they had known French for years and that they had no idea he was "crooked." "I saw him only as a financial wizard," Gerber said.

"French came to us with an idea which he said would save the country from a terrible financial collapse," Strobel said. "Many firms needed more credit. Cleveland banks refused further loans. The firms were only too glad to agree to our terms."

Details of one of French's most spectacular deals also was revealed today. It involved the moving of the factory of the American Rubber company to Centralia, Ill., if the city would pay a $50,000 bonus. It is declared that the amount was raised and paid to French by Centralia business men who desired to have the $1,000,000 factory, located in their town.

Discovery of further bogus securities held by French and his associates in their operations was expected today at Milwaukee.

Alvin W. Harshman who was French's agent there, according to his own confession already has uncovered more than $1,000,000 in securities of doubtful value. Harshman has promised to turn over other papers that the government expects will be productive of additional evidence.

LICENSE RETURNED
Newark, August 25.—A marriage license issued four years ago, to Mr. Raymond Day and Esther Johnson, formerly of this city, was returned to the probate court Saturday for filing. The couple has never been here since 1917, when the wedding took place.

TWO HUNDRED REGISTER
Wooster, August 25.—Two hundred new students have registered at the Wooster college for the coming year. Indications are that the enrollment will be the largest in history. Last year at this time, 126 new students had registered.

A SHOCKING TALE
Martins Ferry, Ohio.—Dr. John Johns' coach dog joined a crowd watching linemen restore wires torn down during a storm. The dog sat down on a live wire, startling the crowd with its yelps. A board was used in forcing him from his involuntary electrical massage.

BANK TELLER AND GIRL DISAPPEAR WITH LARGE SUM

Edward F. Morse

Miss Mabel Penfold. Edward F. Morse, thirty-two, for three years head teller of the International Trust Company, of Denver, Colo., has disappeared with Miss Mabel Penfold, twenty-two, an employee of the bank, and $78,166 in cash, all the currency that was in sight in the bank. The couple, it is believed, fled to Mexico. J. S. Penfold, father of the girl, states that he had received a telegram from the girl from Port Lupton, saying that she had married Morse. The latter has a wife, with whom he lived in Denver. The theft was discovered by the bank president John Evans. He said the condition of the bank would not be affected, as it was fully covered by insurance. Officials of the bank said that Morse gave satisfaction up to the time of Miss Penfold's employment by the bank in May of this year.

HUGHES CLEARS UP TECHNICAL POINT IN PEACE TREATY

Document Will Be Signed
In Berlin Thursday Is Statement.

Berlin, August 25.—The state of war between the United States and Germany which had been in effect since April 6, 1917, was formally terminated today. The separate treaty of peace between this country and Germany was signed at the foreign office reestablishing peace.

Washington, August 25.—Secretary of State Hughes has cleared up the technical point, which caused Ellis Loring Dresel, American commissioner at Berlin, to withhold his signature from the treaty of peace with Germany. The point raised by Dresel was of minor importance and the secretary of state today dispatched a reply to Dresel's query which is expected to close the matter and it is probable that the treaty will be signed in Berlin today.

The American state department today received confirmation of the signing of a peace treaty between Austria and the United States in Vienna yesterday. This treaty is understood to be almost identical with that negotiated with Germany.

If the treaty is signed in Berlin today it is expected that it will be published here immediately upon receipt of word that it has been finally concluded.

The way has been paved for early ratification of the treaty by the senate administration officials believe. Republican members of the senate foreign relations committee put their stamp of approval upon the pact yesterday and Secretary Hughes explained the document to both Republican and Democratic members yesterday afternoon.

Senator Hitchcock, Nebraska, ranking Democratic member of the committee, stated today that he "can see no reason why the treaty should not be ratified."

In as much as the treaty provides that the United States shall not accept any of the responsibilities of the Versailles treaty it is not believed that it will be objectionable to the so-called "irreconcilables" of the senate who led in the fight against the Versailles pact.

The treaty will probably be submitted to the senate September 21, with that negotiates with Germany.

SUPPLY ADEQUATE
Marion, August 25.—County school Supt. W. R. Heistand announces that he has an adequate supply of teachers for the opening of the schools the first week in September. Last year he was compelled to send scouts over the state for teachers and even found it difficult to supply local schools. This year there is an over supply of teachers because, Heistand says, the wages offered are flatter and have not decreased in this county.

Military Board to Probe Coast Fire

THREE THOUSAND FEET TO BOTTOM!

GIANT STEAMER LEVIATHAN IS BARELY SAVED

Nearly 5,000 Soldier Dead
In Path Of Flames at Hoboken

ORIGIN UNKNOWN

Blaze Breaks Out On Pier
and Rapidly Spreads
Late Thursday.

Hoboken, N. J., Aug. 25.—A military board of inquiry was to meet here today to determine the cause of the $500,000 fire that last night destroyed piers, five and six, military headquarters and several smaller buildings. The bodies of 4,700 soldiers dead, brought home from France, were saved by the valiant efforts of troops stationed at the piers, aided by Hoboken citizens. The giant steamer Leviathan, formerly the Vaterland, was saved from destruction although her super structure was burned and her sides badly scorched.

The fire was discovered on the middle of pier five, early last evening. It spread through the wooden pier quickly and the whole water front seemed a raging mass of flames within a few minutes. The fire continued to spread until about 10 o'clock when it was finally brought under control. Firemen from Hoboken, Jersey City and New York, however, until early dawn today, worked to prevent the blaze from spreading.

Nothing was known today of the cause of the blaze. Military officials inclined to the belief that it was caused by crossed wires. A man who gave his name as Albert Kramer was taken into custody at the scene of the blaze early today. Detectives thought his actions were suspicious. He declared he was attracted to the scene simply by curiosity. He said he was in Passaic when the fire started last night.

1,500 bodies of the soldier dead were on pier four which was badly damaged. When it became apparent that the blaze was going to reach that pier troops were at once rushed there to move the bodies to safety. The weight of the caskets made the task of moving the bodies a hard one and it was feared the soldiers would not be able to accomplish it in time. Officers directing the work appealed to the crowd that had been attracted by the fire to help. Hundreds volunteered immediately and the caskets were all removed to a place of safety before the flames could reach them.

A score of tug boats were called out to move the Leviathan out into the river but as it was low tide the giant liner was bedded on the river bottom and could not be budged. A fire boat then squeezed its way between the burning pier and the Leviathan and kept steady streams of water pouring on to the sides of the vessel. Officials, declared today that this "water screen" had saved the Leviathan from heavy damage.

JAPAN ACCEPTS

Washington, Aug. 25.—Japan's "heartily and appreciative acceptance" of President Harding's invitation to participate in the Washington disarmament and Far Eastern conference was expressed in a note received at the state department from the Japanese minister of foreign affairs. The Japanese government expressed its invitation however, expresses the hope that the agents of the Far Eastern conference would be arranged prior to the meeting in accordance with its suggestion that matters concerning only a few nations or which are accomplished facts not be brought into the discussions.

The World In Arms

Violent and widespread rioting is reported from India and reports from Bombay and Calcutta indicate that a revolutionary movement against British rule in southern India may be attempted.

The threatened war between Panama and Costa Rica over disputed territory has been averted by the United States.

A state of war has been declared in part of Nicaragua because of revolutionary activities. Severe fighting between the Spaniards and rebellious Moorish tribesmen continues in Morocco.

The Greeks who are at war against the Turkish nationalists, continue their advance against Ankara.

A wild situation prevails in Upper Silesia with frequent clashes between the Poles and Germans. It is believed that only the presence of allies can prevent civil war.

The Christian Herald in New York City proposes that Sunday, Nov. 6, be set aside for disarmament prayers in American churches.

Thousand Killed in Indian Riots Around Malabar

a news agency dispatch from Bombay today.

Dublin, Aug. 25.—The Sinn Fein reply to the English peace offer, which is understood to be a rejection of Premier Lloyd George's proposals was taken to London today. It will be delivered by the Sinn Fein envoys at 10 Downing Street Friday morning.

It is understood that the answer states that Dail Eireann gave full endorsement to the decision of the Irish republican cabinet to refuse the English terms.

The document was said to interrogate Premier Lloyd George whether he is prepared to negotiate further with Ireland upon the basis of latter country being self-governing through the consent of the governed.

Dublin, August 25.—A general order calling upon all Sinn Fein soldiers to hold themselves in readiness for active service in the field at any moment was read to all ranks and units of the Irish Republican army today.

"No such necessity may arise," said the general order, "but it is the duty of the defenders of the Irish republic not to relax their vigilance and to leave nothing to chance. This situation is thoroughly appreciated by the fighting men of Ireland. Whatever contingency arises they will act in a manner worthy of the glorious traditions of the republican army. The morale of the Sinn Fein volunteers was never higher than it is today."

Dail Eireann (Sinn Fein parliament) was scheduled to resume its secret executive sessions today for consideration of Eamonn DeValera's reply to the English peace proposals.

BANDITS SHOOT MAN

Columbus, August 25.—When two negro bandits ordered John Thomas 47, St. Louis, to put up his hands, Thomas mistook the command for a salutation. As a result of his failure to comply with their demand, the bandits fired a bullet into Thomas' left arm. He was taken to a hospital.

U.S. WILL NOT CONDUCT PROBE OF EXPLOSION

Navy Department Will Leave Investigation
To England.

TO BUILD ANOTHER

Great Britain Will Have To Stand Monetary Loss
It is Said.

Washington, Aug. 25.—The Navy department announced today that it had been decided not to hold an American court inquiry into the explosion of the ZR-2, but that as the ship was under the jurisdiction of the British to leave investigation to the British officials.

A court of inquiry will be held of the dead Americans, however, in accordance with naval custom to establish how the men met their death and that they died in line of duty.

Officials here are anxious to secure information on these points:

1.—Why helium gas, which is non-explosive, was not used.

2.—Whether faulty construction, which caused the buckling of several of the girders of the ship on July 18 had been entirely corrected before the trial flight began.

3.—What tests had been made before the ship took off on its trial flight.

Naval officials stated today that despite the disaster to the ZR-2 that their plans for the construction of the ZR-1 a sister ship would go forward. Funds which had been appropriated for the ZR-2 probably will be available for the completion of the ZR-1, it was stated. Construction of the ZR-1 was halted some time ago because of the failure in congress to appropriate funds. It is navy custom not to pay for property until finally tested and accepted and in as much as the ZR-2 had not been finally tested or turned over to the United States, it is expected that Great Britain will have to stand the monetary loss. The loss will be approximately $2,000,000. A decision from the comptroller of the currency may be necessary before the navy is able to use the money appropriated for the ZR-2 for the completion of the ZR-2.

No naval authority would charge today that faulty structure caused the accident but for some time the belief has been expressed here that there might be something wrong with the ship's construction.

Washington, Aug. 25.—Searching parties are today seeking the bodies of Lieut. Marcus Esterly of 242 Amurda Avenue, Youngstown, O., and Lieut. Charles G. Leslie of Newburyport, Mass., the only two Americans on the ill-fated ZR-2 whose bodies have not been recovered. The navy department was advised today in a cable from London. The cable stated that Norman O. Walker, A. R., first class, was the only American survivor.

Washington, August 25.—The senate today adjourned after the passage of the "bills they left behind them." Congress scattered to the traditional four winds today.

Only the members of the senate finance committee were left behind to wrestle with tax and tariff bills during the thirty day recess, which began officially when the senate threw up its hands and quit just before midnight with the Willis-Campbell anti-beer bill still to be acted upon.

This measure, carrying the anti-saloon league search and seizure amendment, reposes on the shelf to be called up and debated again when the senate reconvenes a month from now. Failure of the bill to pass finally in the senate may lead to the issuance of regulations by the treasury department under which physicians will be authorized to prescribe beer and wine for the sick in accordance with the decision rendered by Attorney General Palmer on March 3.

TRAGIC FINISH OF DIRIGIBLE TAKES 43 LIVES

Sixteen Americans Perish
as ZR-2 Explodes In England.

START INVESTIGATION

Only Six Escape—Commander Saves City of Hull by Action

Hull, England, August 25.—Official inquiry was begun today to fix responsibility for the loss of the world's greatest dirigible, the ZR-2, which lies a mass of charred and tangled wreckage in the Humber river.

The disaster, the most appalling in the history of peace time aeronautics—was almost instantaneous. The breaking of the girders and the two explosions which broke the back of the giant craft, sending her crashing with the loss of 43 lives, all occurred within five seconds.

Out of the 49 men on board the giantess of the skies, only six escaped, one of them an American, Norman O. Walker, a rigger, of Commerce, Texas.

From stories told by survivors and the observations of experts the ZR-2 was carrying too much weight for her framework. Several girders are believed to have broken under the strain, penetrating the fuel tanks.

The petrol flowed out and was ignited by the motors causing the violent explosion. Search of the Humber river and the wreckage is under way for bodies of victims.

An inquest over the dead will be held later.

The British air ministry was in sole charge of the craft when she was wrecked. She had not yet been turned over to the United States.

CITIZENS CALLED UPON TO RESIST ARMED INVASION

Washington, August 25.—President Harding is now considering the question of sending United States troops into West Virginia as the result of a request from Governor Morgan of that state, it was announced at the war department this afternoon.

Charleston, W. Va., Aug. 25.—Refusal of Sheriff Don Chafin, of Logan county to give out any information this morning was viewed here as serving to confirm reports current last night that the sheriff had mobilized the citizens of Logan to resist an impending attempt of armed miners from the camp at Marmet to invade the county on their march to Mingo.

"We can not give out anything," was the sheriff's reply to repeated questions over long distance telephone.

Miners were reported to have begun their march shortly after midnight this morning. Sheriff Chafin is said to have two airplanes, which he has had loaded with bombs.

The machines are said to be in their hangars, tuned up for duty. Machine guns have been planted to cover roads the miners would travel, and citizens have been armed and summoned to be ready.

BLAME WATCHMAN FOR AUTO ACCIDENT

Willoughby, O., Aug. 25.—Witnesses blame the crossing gate watchman who raised the safety gates while a New York central express train was approaching at a speed of 75 miles an hour, crushing head on in to an auto party from Parkersburg, W. Va., causing the almost instant death of J. C. Cashen and his daughters Isabel, 13 and Betty, 9 late T. T. A. Olin.

Mrs. Ashen, her son, Carlton, 20 and Ray C. Uhl are all in a serious condition in the Painesville hospital today.

Ralph H. Cratt, watchman at the crossing gate states that smoke from a work train on siding kept him from seeing the approaching New York Central train, which he claims was ten minutes ahead of schedule, and that the noise of the work train's exhaust drowned the warning signal of the buzzer.

MEDICAL SOCIETY WILL HOLD GROUP MEETING IN XENIA

As one of the progressive activities of the Ohio State Medical Association, a series of group meetings has been arranged throughout Ohio this fall for post graduate study on the diagnosis and treatment of various ailments.

Of the eighteen or twenty locations where these meetings will be held, and to which all surrounding counties are being invited is Xenia. The meeting here will be held on Wednesday, September 7, in the K. of P. Hall.

The Ohio State Medical Association through its Medical Education committee proposes to reach the physicians in practically every county in the state, through a series of lectures which will be given by some of the best known authorities on the subject of diagnosis. The meetings in adjoining counties have been invited, will be addressed by Dr. J. E. J. Upham, Professor of Medicine, Ohio State University College of Medicine, and staff consultant for several Columbus hospitals.

It is the purpose of these meetings to demonstrate the recent scientific advances in this important field of medical practice and during the lecture methods of technique will be demonstrated. Following the formal address will be a general discussion, based on the reports submitted by the physicians present.

The purpose of this meeting is based on the fundamental principle in scientific medical practice, that physical ailments cannot all be treated by one method, and that the first requisite is thorough examination and accurate diagnosis, upon which can then be based the particular method or special kind of treatment best adapted to the individual case.

SAYS OVERTHROW OF MORALS AIM OF YOUTH OF TODAY

Washington. — Chaperones for young folks, and especially for those who take part in what Inspector Grant of the Washington Police Department calls "jazz auto rides" are being strongly advocated here with Mrs. Giles Scott Rafter, president of the District of Columbia Congress of Mothers, leading the way.

Inspector Grant believes that the automobile is the "greatest medium of vice" and Mrs. Rafter declares: "The elimination of chaperones is one of the causes of the decline of morality among the younger generation—too much freedom will spoil the best of boys and girls."

"The tendency today is a feeling of repulsion against restraint, and the girls and boys are doing pretty much as they please," the police official says. "It would be well if the mother or some responsible person could accompany the young couple on some of their rides and perhaps the jazz auto riding and wild parties would stop."

"Women, it would seem, are enjoying their first taste of real freedom. They are like a man who takes a drink for the first time. He says to himself, 'Oh, one drink won't hurt me.' But then he takes another and then another and finally becomes intoxicated."

"That is the way with women and their new freedom. They try all these new fangled things. They think if they do it once they won't want to do it again, but finally just like men they become intoxicated and these things may be anything from jazz auto riding to spooning."

Mrs. Rafter thinks that the American girl has "too much freedom."

"The parents alone are to blame," she says. "If the girls wear skirts that are too short, rouge, smoke, spend too much money and flirt it is their parents' fault. They allow them too much freedom."

"I have always been a firm believer in proper chaperonage. The parents should know what their daughters are doing when they are out and who their associates are. Too much freedom will spoil the best of boys and girls."

TRAGIC FINISH OF DIRIGIBLE TAKES FORTY THREE LIVES

Navy department. Her final and fatal flight was being made under the direction of British air marshal E. M. Maitland and Lieutenant A. H. Wann of the British air service, Commander L. H. Maxwell, U. S. N., who was to have been in charge of the dirigible on her voyage across the Atlantic was on board as an official observer and "learner."

The presence of mind of Lieut. Wann averted what would have been a greater disaster. The ship began to buckle and "hump" while she was over this city. Instantly the commander turned her toward the Humber, knowing that if the dirigible fell upon Hull it would be a calamity for the city.

The horror of the disaster cast a pall of sorrow over all England.

"The accident happened with terrific suddenness," said Lieut. Wann, (one of the survivors) as he lay in the hospital today.

"The ship was going beautifully. We had been up since 7:10 o'clock Tuesday morning and were delighted with the smoothness of the working parts. We had been going at sixty knots an hour late Wednesday afternoon and just before the mishap, but out down the speed to fifty knots. Suddenly there was a violent crack and I think several of the girders must have broken. The came the explosion. The whole thing happened in two seconds. There was no sign of anything being wrong as we started to pass over Hull. I was in sole control of the ship."

"It all happened very quickly but from what I saw and heard I think one of the girders in the forepart of the framework must have gone first. Fire broke out at once enveloping the gas bag and sending up much smoke."

Harry Bateman, formerly of Halifax, a member of the English crew which was running the ZR-2 had a slightly different version. Bateman saved his life by leaping overboard with a parachute. He told the following story:

"The ship had passed in over the coast from the North Sea and was going at a high rate of speed. I was in the after part of the craft near the rudder. As we passed over Hull the controls were being tested and apparently everything was safe and sound. Then came the disaster and it came with awful suddenness. I think that one or more girders amidships must have broken or buckled. There was a series of sharp shocks and the craft began to fall swiftly, nose first."

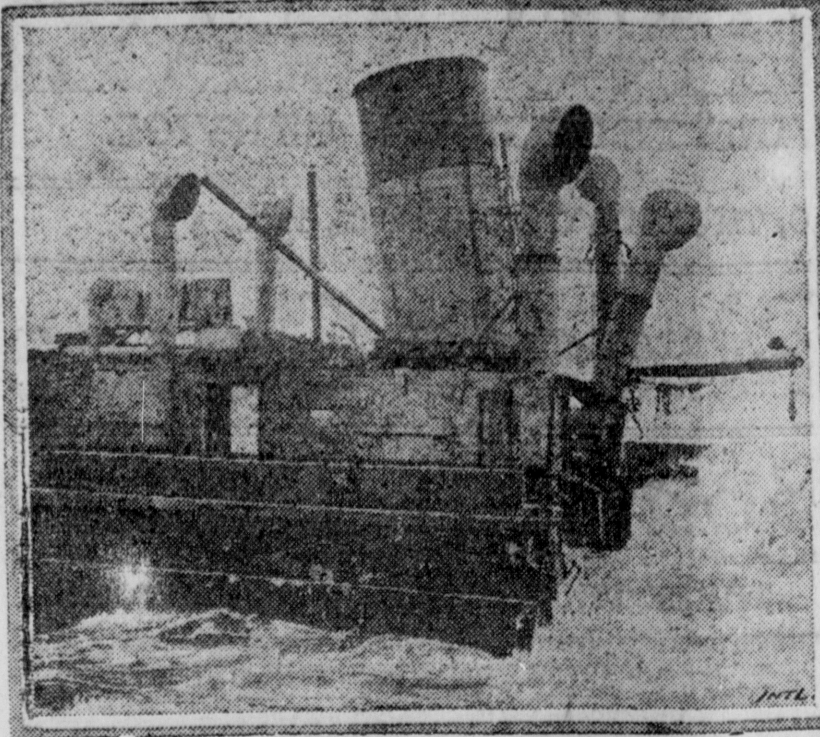

"As she started down the petrol tank exploded with a loud roar and a burst of fire. I was through down by the shock and instantly realized that the ZR-2 was doomed. There was a parachute nearby and I had sufficient presence of mind to seize the ropes and go overboard."

All the stories agreed that ZR-2 first buckled and then blew up. There was no sign of smoke, fire or explosion until after the craft's back broke and she began to sag downwards.

All the survivors emphasized the suddenness with which the calamity occurred. This accounted for the heavy loss of life. Elaborate precautions had been taken to provide safeguards for men on board and there was an individual parachute for each. But so quickly did the girders break and the ship explode that the men were caught unawares and only a very few were able to take advantage of the parachutes.

According to the British naval intelligence office at this port the ZR-2 was one thousand feet in the air when she buckled, caught fire and blew up. Despite her great height it took the blazing wreckage less than two minutes to reach the surface of the river. There was a tremendous splash, a spurt of smoke and steam and then the spectators on the shore who had been held spell-bound by the tragic and spectacular sight gave a cry of horror.

STRANDED STEAMER BREAKS IN HALF

The Canadian Government S.S. Canadian Exporter, an 8,000 ton freighter, carrying a $1,500,000 cargo, breaks in half after running aground on a sand spit off Willapa Harbor, Washington. The vessel went on the spit when her compass failed to work. Her crew of forty-three was taken off. The big steel ship broke amidships at the boiler room and is slowly sinking. The picture was made from abroad one-half of the deck of the vessel as she was slowly breaking up.

ADVERTISING URGED TO GIVE PUBLIC INSIGHT INTO WORK OF BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATIONS IN STATE

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 25.—"No financial institution dealing directly with the public can fulfill its public trust to the utmost without carrying its message to the people through the medium of newspaper advertising," declared Don L. Tobin, director of publicity for the Ohio Building Association League, in an address at the thirty-third annual convention of the league at Cedar Point. He declared the country's most interesting, but as yet unwritten story on thrift and economy lies behind the closed windows of its home building institutions. Building and loan officials were urged to go back home and by advertising in their local papers tear down the curtains of mystery that have heretofore veiled the inner workings of their financial institutions. Tobin pointed out that almost every building and loan institution in Ohio which was making itself felt in its respective community was doing newspaper advertising. He said that newspaper publishers, too, should recognize the fact that greater gains in advertising had been made among the building and loan institutions in Ohio during the last year than in any other financial group.

Home Building Agencies. That home building in Ohio can not reach a pre-war basis until more funds are available for home financing was a salient point brought out at the building and loan men's convention. It was shown that building and loan institutions are the chief agencies for home building, but that at the present time they are handicapped by lack of funds.

John J. Stoddard, Columbus, well known lawyer, educator and financier and retiring head of Ohio Building Association League, declared the building and loan institutions had a mission that went very near the heart of our national life. He said a nation of home owners would be one that would never fear the ravages of Bolshevism. Stoddard pleaded for community interest in home building and said that in order to do this they must take an interest from a community standpoint in the institutions that made home financing possible.

Stoddard declared the building and loan officials had raised their thoughts above the mere idea of money making rising to a plane of public service.

and the itching stops

No smarting even if the skin is irritated—only cool comfort.

This ideal has spread in every locality according to Stoddard and "will bring about a more thorough recognition on the part of the public of the usefulness and objects of the savings and loan work."

Take Progressive Steps

The building and loan men urged the carrying out of savings instructions and the practice of practical thrift in the schools, protested against the increase of interest rates on postal savings on the grounds that it would keep money from home building channels, spoke of the inadequacy of the present tax laws, and asked for the privilege of bidding upon the private funds of the state the same as banks.

According to Edwin F. Woods, Columbus, building and loan institutions should make an effort to continue the organizations for systematic savings started in the schools by the government during the war. He declared the school savings systems rapidly are becoming a feature of American education. "They can and should be in every school."

Says Safety Big Factor.

James A. Devine, secretary of the Ohio Building Association League, declared that Ohioans had been fleeced out of a quarter of a billion of dollars in bad stocks during the last three years. He urged building and loan officials to see that the public fully understand that funds placed in building and loan associations are absolutely protected, that when wanted they can be withdrawn dollar for dollar with accrued interest and that building loan dividends are never suspended.

He declared that many persons thought of building and loan associations only when they wanted to borrow money. "It must be impressed upon the public that building and loan associations are saving institutions, paying a good rate of interest and offering the best of safeguards to the public. He said that investors were doing a duty by their community in placing funds in building and loan associations, where almost every dollar deposited was loaned out for home building."

SO WEAK SO NERVOUS

How Miserable This Woman Was Until She Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Toomsboro, Ga.—"I suffered terribly with backache and headache all the time, was so weak and nervous I didn't know what to do, and could not do my work. My trouble was deficient and irregular periods. I read in the papers what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for others and decided to give it a trial. I got good results from its use so that I am now able to do my work. I recommend your Vegetable Compound to my friends who have troubles similar to mine and you may use these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. C.F. PHILLIPS, Toomsboro, Ga.

Weak, nervous women make unhappy homes, their condition irritates both husband and children. It has been said that nine-tenths of the nervous prostration, nervous despondency, "the blues," irritability and backache arise from some displacement or derangement of a woman's system. Mrs. Phillips' letter clearly shows that no other remedy is so successful in overcoming this condition as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

LOCAL DELEGATION SEES FESTIVAL AT SIDNEY WEDNESDAY

"Sidney merchants are occupying 1,500 feet of booth space with display booths and those who did not enter into the festival idea are sorry now that they didn't," said A. Moser, chairman of the retail affairs committee of the Chamber of Commerce, which is sponsoring the Festival to be held here next week.

Mr. Moser headed a delegation of business men who visited the Sidney Festival Wednesday afternoon, composed of Dr. A. C. Messenger, L. S. Barnes, J. W. Kennedy and Frank Davidson, secretary of the Greene County Automobile Club. The local party was entertained by the Sidney merchants and members of the reception committee and by members of the Festival Company, which is staging the Fall Festival.

The Festival Company will arrive in this city Sunday, transporting its equipment on eleven cars, at a freight cost over the Baltimore & Ohio from Sidney, of $467. The company paid a freight bill of $932.16 from New Philadelphia to Sidney and the equipment carried represents an investment of $35,000.

This equipment includes 2,300 feet of merchants' display booths, all ready to erect and 380 feet of automobile show booths. Eighty-six people are connected with the Festival. Following a policy of not working on Sunday, the company will start the erection of its booths right after midnight, Monday morning, and continuing the work through Monday will have it completed in time for merchants to decorate their booths, Monday, for the opening, Tuesday.

Sidney is entering fully into the spirit of the Festival, according to members of the local delegation who visited that city Wednesday. Merchants entered readily into the plan of decorating display booths, and the result of the Festival in the size of the crowds attracted to the city, has been good. The merchants display parades, in which they entered floats, was an attractive feature of the Sidney Festival this week, practically every merchant being represented with a moving display in a long parade. At Fostoria, the farmers' parade. At Fostoria, the farmers' parade, the parade being over two miles in length. The automobile parade, in which decorated machines particular feature here, and Dr. A. C. Messenger, president of the Greene County Automobile Club, is planning to have every machine in the city that day in the Festival.

DEMOCRACY NEEDED IN RURAL SCHOOLS DECLARES SPEAKER

The Wednesday session of the County-City Teachers' Institute was opened with a preliminary talk and demonstration by Mr. Coleman on how to teach rhythm with the use of the victrola. This included several singing games and folks games or dances which proved to be profitable and interesting.

In leading the devotionals Dr. Dyer used the words chosen by Gladstone when asked by a young man for a motto by which he might live. These were, "Whatever is true, whatever is honest, whatever is just, whatever is pure, whatever is lovely, whatever is of good report, if there be any virtue, if there be any praise, think of these things." This was followed by his address on "Thinking and Teaching to Think." Under this subject he discussed the rise and place of definitions in school work.

An important feature of the session was the lecture on "Democracy in Rural Education" by Dr. Mabel Carney, Professor of Rural Education, Columbia University, New York City. She said that democracy was especially lacking in the rural districts. Each city child has an average of forty dollars a year spent for educational purposes, while the country child has an average of only twenty four dollars. This lack of democracy is due (1) to lack of money, (2) money not wisely spent, (3) poor attendance, (4) lack of good teachers in rural districts, (5) no supervision, (6) too short a school term. The country child is supposed to do in six years what the city child does in eight on account of this short term.

Dr. Dyer again spoke in the afternoon on "Teaching to Think." He said, "The first and important function of every teacher is to get the children to see things as they are." "The Modern Teacher" was the subject chosen by Dr. Carney for her second address. In this she noted the differences between the modern teacher and the teacher of an earlier period. "The modern teacher has a more scientific attitude of mind. She is interested in the profession outside her own school room. She is progressive without being extreme and has more self respect than the earlier type of teacher," states Dr. Carney. This was the last lecture of the day.

FESTIVAL HEAD TO BE SPEAKER HERE AT AUTO BANQUET

KELLY WINS GOLF TOURNEY WEDNESDAY

J. E. Kelly won the handicap golf tournament at Xenia Country Club Wednesday, by shooting a 39 for the nine holes, which, with a handicap of three, gave him a net score of 36. His nearest opponent T. C. Long finished with a 48 which cut down by a handicap of 11 put him in second place with a net score of 37. R. S. Kingsbury and Dr. H. C. Messenger tied for third place with net scores of 38 each. Kingsbury turned in a 45 and Messenger a 51. John M. Davidson won fourth place with a net score of 39, his handicap being eight.

R. A. Kelly and Dr. Eber J. Reynolds divided honors for fifth place each having a net score of 40. Reynolds turned in a 49 and Kelly a 48.

In the women's tournament, first place was taken by Mrs. Ralph M. Hall, whose gross score of 60 was lessened to a 35 net by a handicap of 30. Mrs. Charles E. Fisher took second place by turning in a 63 which with a handicap of 27 gave her a net score of 36. Mrs. C. L. Darlington won third place. She had the same gross score as Mrs. Fisher but was given one less as a handicap.

Next week Louis Brandenburg announces that he will offer a one-club tournament for members. This he explains will necessitate playing the course by the use of one club only. In the late afternoon driving and putting contests will probably be held.

FREIGHTER SINKING

San Francisco, Aug. 25.—The chamber of commerce marine department today received a radio report relayed by the steamer Cordova from the freighter Canadian Importer, bound from Vancouver to Auckland, saying the crew had left the ship in life boats and that she was in a sinking condition.

The radio gave the position of the Canadian Importer as 623 miles south east of the Columbia river.

Styles BY LENORE

When one is off at school or college there are many occasions when a dark semi-dress frock is indispensable. There are matinees, and teas and calls to make, and for these the really unusual frock in the sketch will prove more than satisfying. It may be in dark blue or brown, alternating panels of pleated Georgette or crepe Roman with bands of perforated cire ribbon. The latter is easy to obtain, and is really the same as the ribbons introduced some seasons ago as "sheepish" ribbon. This season, it is said, these dull effects will be used a great deal both in braids and ribbons.

To return to the frock there are six bands of the ribbon in all, two in front two behind and one at each side, with sleeves to harmonize, and a simply looped girdle encircles the waist. At the neck may be worn a circular collar of lace or embroidered batiste.

PATTERN NO.237

A pattern for the above model (No. 237) can be obtained in sizes 34, 36 or 38, by sending to LENORE, 8 West 40th St., NEW YORK CITY, your name, address, and 50 cents in postage stamps. Be sure to keep this newspaper clipping of the sketch and description of the garment to use as a working model when the pattern reaches you—which will be within two weeks' time.—The Editor.

YOUNG MAN, STUDY LAW IF YOU WOULD GO INTO CONGRESS: SIXTY PER CENT OF LAWMAKERS GOT START BY LEGAL STAIRS

Washington.—"Study law, young man, study law!"

If Horace Greeley were alive today and could cast his critical and far-seeing eye over Washington, allowing it to linger a moment on the great white dome of the Capitol, he surely would revise his famous admonition to youth. Instead of advising young men to "Go West, Go West," he would undoubtedly suggest that they dig into law.

A vocational analysis of Congress with its ninety six Senators and its 435 Representatives, reveals many interesting things. And not the least of these revelations is the fact that nearly 60 per cent of the membership of both Houses of Congress found success by pursuing the dry and somewhat arduous pathway that leads through law and the courts.

Of the 531 members of the House and Senate 333 are lawyers and many more of them have studied the law's intricacies. Most of this 333 rate themselves as "practicing attorneys."

Unlisted and doubtful . . . 48 Truly do lawyers make our laws and then charge us for interpreting them!

The cry of the soap-box orator that "the country is in the grip of lawyers" seems to be borne out, if the vocational analysis of Congress can be taken as a criterion.

In the main the careers of these lawyer-legislators have run through about the same channels. They have for the most part been started in "Judge So-and-So's law office." After the dry and tedious apprenticeship they have branched out for themselves, maybe hanging out a modest shingle of their own or perhaps joining some already well-established firm.

The first political step usually was taken in municipal or county or district politics and then up through the various stages until they have finally landed in Congress. A few, very few of them, have leaped to success, as revealed in their illuminating biographies in the Congressional Record. Most of them have come up by slow and easy stages.

The moral contained in a vocational survey of Congress if there is one, apparently is:

"If you want a political career, get into law."

Three hundred and thirty-three lawyers in Congress. Nearly 60 per cent!

And of the rest—what of them? They are editors, farmers, manufacturers, real estate and insurance men, bankers, doctors, teachers, merchants, coal dealers, dentists, engineers and what not—a cross section of any prosperous American community.

After the law it seems that news paper work is the best avenue through which to make a Congressional approach. There are twenty-four editors and publishers of news papers in the two branches of Congress.

Of farmers there are twenty-two. It should be explained, however, that most of those who list themselves as "farmers" are not of the "dirt farmer" variety. Very few of them, during Congressional recesses, go out to their tabes at 4 a. m. harness a draft team by lantern light and are to be seen sinking their ploughs into the soil by sunrise. They could more properly be termed "farm owners" than farmers.

There are nineteen members of Congress who list their principal business as manufacturing, thirteen as real estate and insurance and eleven as bankers. There are many more than eleven interested and connected with banking enterprises, but apparently it is a sideline to their regular business.

There are many wealthy men in Congress but there are only two whose biographies reveal so little of their business enterprises as to merit the classification of "capitalist."

The balance of Congress is scattered among a dozen vocations and callings. One member lists his business as "owner of a clipping bureau," another as a restaurant proprietor, another as a well driller, etc.

If the representation of lawyers were cut down to a somewhere near proportionate size Congress would be a typical cross section of American business and professional life—there are men in it who live entirely on their salaries, there are others whose salaries hardly pay their servants salaries but the vast majority of them are men in circumstances that could be described as "easy."

And most of 'em got it through law.

FINISHES SECOND IN THREE HEATS

Finishing in second place in all three heats, Joe Hagler, of this city, driving a Ford, from the stable of Frank McCloud, of Dayton, won second money in the 2:17 trot at the Madison County Fair, London, Wednesday.

Al Forbes led all the way the first heat, but was nosed out on the stretch by Hollywood Hilda, with Shorts up, the mare winning the race in straight heats. The time for each heat was 2:14 1-4.

Marjorie the Great, with Frank Hedrick up, won the 2:25 pace by taking the last three heats after Mary Brown had won the first two. Catherine Cavitt was winner of the 2:30 trot, $1,000 stake. Many Xenians attended the events.

CUPID PROSTRATED

St. Clairsville, Ohio. — Although Cupid is pictured as not being burdened with clothing, the little love god, apparently, couldn't stand the heat in Belmont county, Ohio's ninth largest county.

Evidence that diminutive Dan deserted this county is found in the fact that for four days not one marriage license was issued at the court house, although there are 100,000 residents in the county.

HEAD VACCINATION PROTEST

Mrs. Sydney King & Mrs. Norman Merriman

Two hundred and twenty of the 226 American citizens who arrived in New York recently on the French steamship Rochambeau were "fit to be tied." These passengers were angry because they had been vaccinated by French doctors at Havre on orders issued by the United States Public Health Service. They were especially indignant because they had discovered for the first time in their lives that there is second-class smallpox, a malady that is never suspected in first-class passengers, who, consequently, are never vaccinated. Mrs. Sydney Scott King, of Dayton, Ohio and Mrs. Norman Merriman of Brooklyn, N. Y., said they intend to bring the matter up before official Washington, declaring that the French doctors seemed to have no idea of sanitation.

EXPLORERS HEADED FOR ARCTIC WASTES TAKE ALONG DEHYDRATED FOODSTUFFS

New York.—When Captain Donald B. MacMillan and his six adventurous companions sailed down the Sheepscot River, Maine, a few days ago headed for Baffin Land and the uncharted regions of the frozen North they carried with them what will be the first fresh fruits and vegetables ever to penetrate to that barren land. The foodstuffs, which included raspberries and cabbages, both to be eaten raw; fresh spinach, green corn and new rhubarb, in the stalk, for rhubarb pies, were packed simply in paper bags and cardboard boxes and were so compact that they will be sufficient to last six months.

The food was in dehydrated form, by which chemical process of removing the water without destroying the cell walls a bushel reduces to a pound or two, will keep indefinitely in that form and yet may be restored to its original bulk, color and taste by a few hours soaking in water. Not the least interesting items on the list of dehydrated foods carried on the Arctic expedition was a quantity of roast beef hash, complete, which in its dehydrated form is a mass of dry, withered kernels. A little water will so restore it that it can be cooked just as if entirely new. Enough dehydrated grass to last the dogs of the expedition for six months at the rate of two portions a week was included, and a bunch of catnip for the ship's cat. A small quantity of eggs and fish was also furnished.

The foods were prepared at twenty-four hours' notice by scientists and food experts who have been experimenting with the dehydrated process as affecting every fruit and vegetable grown on the North American Continent, and with meats, fish and eggs. The process, which takes from half an hour to four or five hours, according to the water content of the article, is claimed by scientists to be far superior to drying or canning since the volatiles, flavoring essences, colorings and nutritive properties are preserved intact. The great decrease in bulk under dehydration is due to the fact, little appreciated, that fresh foods average 90 per cent water and that in paying for such the consumer is actually paying for water he does not want or need.

Will Consider Inventions.

The dehydration process is one of

MRS. BERT AGIN IS CURED OF HAY FEVER BY KERKER REMEDY

"Why suffer with hay fever?" is the natural query, after reading the statement of Mrs. Bert Agin, 1272 Linden Avenue, Zanesville, O., who gives full credit to Kerker's Asthma and Hay Fever Preparation. Her statement says:

"Last summer I contracted hay fever and was fortunate in having recommended as a cure, Kerker's Asthma and Hay Fever Preparation. In a comparatively short time after starting to use it I had thrown off the ailment and I have your preparation to thank for it."

Could A Doctor Do More For You?

The family physician feels your pulse and examines you in many ways and then tells you what is good for what ails you. But, he also sees to it that what is given as a remedy is of the proper proportion and of that certain power that makes for good. Makers of RED WING Ice Cream do just about the same thing. They know that at this season of the year, people need good, wholesome food, containing that which cools, refreshes and satisfies in other ways. Too, they see that it is made of pure cream, cane sugar and flavors so that there is no reaction but that which revives the jaded nerve and tired body. When you are "all fagged out" and easily disturbed, try some of the superior ice cream bearing the RED WING label. It will do you a world of good. You may buy your favorite flavor in almost any form—brick or bulk—within a short distance, for there is a RED WING dealer near you.

NEW NATIONS ON BALTIC SPRINGING UP FOLLOWING WAR

London.—Comic-opera states have sprung up along the Baltic shores, the result of the partitioning of the old Russian Empire, according to a special correspondent of the London Observer.

Each of the three baby nations—Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania—is swelling with national pride. Having gained recognition from several big powers they are putting on all the airs of big nations, much after the manner of some Central American republics.

All three are spending large sums of money developing "national" operas, because France supported one. Jeweller designers have been called in to design decorations for various military orders suddenly springing up.

Barely a dozen trains are operated daily in the three states, over a few hundred miles of track. Yet each of the new-born nations has its "Railway Minister," with scores of subordinates. All three have cabinets modeled along the lines of those administering the affairs of the biggest European powers, with hosts of a functionaries.

Every other person travelling the railways is a "diplomat." Even the "White Russian" Government, representing Russian refugees scattered all over Europe, has its staff of diplomats, press bureaus and employees of all sorts. Their expenses are paid by contributions from wealthy adherents of the former Tsar, who escaped the Bolsheviks, and by the issue of innumerable varieties of postage stamps. None of these stamps would carry a letter or postcard a mile in any country in the world, but they are highly sought after by stamp collectors, hence the governmental revenue. One specimen alone is now quoted at five dollars apiece by London stamp collectors.

An American business man traveling the Baltic nations must suffer end less inconveniences from customs and passport officials at every frontier. Not so with the "diplomats." Equipped with papers from the Lithuanian,

Latvian, Estonian, or White Russian Government, they pass customs officials without any questions and it is generally understood that much of the smuggling along the Baltic goes on in this manner.

DINNER STORIES

"I watched a wonderful machine at our shop work this morning." "And how does it work?" we asked.

"Well," was the reply, "by means of a pedal attachment, a fulcrumed lever converts a vertical reciprocating motion into a circular movement. The principal part of the machine is a huge disk that revolves in a vertical plane. Power is applied through the axis of the disk, and work is done on the periphery, and the hardest substance, by mere impact, may be reduced to any shape.

"What is this wonderful machine?" we asked.

"A grindstone," was the reply.

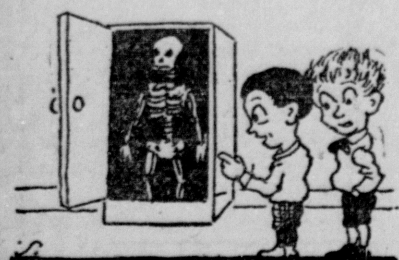

"Anyhow," remarked the blunt friend, "this old boat of yours will never get you arrested for speeding."

"No," answered Mr. Chuggins, "but I'll get arrested just the same, only it'll be for standing still in the wrong place."

"How has the general health of this community been of late?" asked the tourist who had an inquiring mind.

"Finer than frog hair!" triumphantly replied the landlord of the tavern at Tywoppy. "You see, we had only two doctors. One of 'em run off with another man's wife and the other was took on the jury and held so long that all the sick got well."

The doctor's small son was entertaining a friend in his father's office, and they were looking with awed admiration at the articulated skeleton in the closet.

"Where did he get it?" asked the small guest in a whisper.

"Oh, he's had it a long time. I guess maybe that's his first patient!"—Life.

Abe Carter was a pious, hard-working old dork, much respected by the white people of the community. But evil days fell upon Abe. The boll weevil destroyed his cotton; his adopted baby died of the whooping cough; his wife died of a fever; his horse was killed by lightning and a cyclone demolished his cabin.

The Episcopal minister, hearing of Abe's extraordinary misfortunes, called to see him. "Abe," said the minister, "you have been sorely afflicted, but you must trust in the Lord; you must believe it is all for the best."

"Yes, suh, boss," said Abe. "Yes, suh, I does. I feels I is in de hands ob a all-wise an' unscrupulous Providence."

In a confidential little talk to a group of medical students an eminent physician took up the extremely important matter of correct diagnosis of the maximum fee.

"The best rewards," he said, "come, of course, to the established specialist. For instance, I charge $25 a call at the residence, $10 for an office consultation, and $5 for a telephone consultation."

There was an appreciative and envious silence, and then a voice from the back of the amphitheater, slightly thickened, spoke:

"Doc," it asked, "how much do you charge a fellow for passing you on the street?"

THE BIRD WHO WANTED PROHIBITION AND NOW DOESN'T KNOW WHAT TO DO WITH IT—123

DINNER STORIES

She had inspected every parrot in the store and the dealer was getting rather tired. She declared one bird was too green to go with the dining room and another too red for the drawing room, and so on. At last she almost settled on a purchase. Then suddenly she asked: "But is he a good bird? I mean, I hope he doesn't use dreadful language."

"He's a saint, lady," breathed the dealer fervently. "Sings hymns beautifully. I had some parrots what used to swear cruel, but you'll believe me, this here bird converted the lot of them."

In an ancient mansion in London which recently changed hands on account of the ups and downs of war-time fortunes there dwells and works a parlor maid of very expensive and rather cultured and superior type. Her mistress does not mind the expense, but is often much bothered by the culture, this being on too high a plane for her understanding.

"Ma'am," said the maid, meeting her mistress in the hall, "there is a mendicant at the door."

"Then tell him," said the mistress of the mansion, "we have nothing to mend."

"They shot me in the left breast." "Then the bullet must have perpetrated your heart." "No, it didn't." "Nonsense! It must have." "But it didn't. My heart wasn't there. It was in my mouth!"

She was reading the get-rich-quick advertisements.

"Harry, do you take much stock in these promotion schemes?" "All I can afford to, dear," he sighed, jingling the carefare in his pocket.—Judge.

"That man has a most agreeable personality and a very persuasive address, yet he never seems to get anywhere."

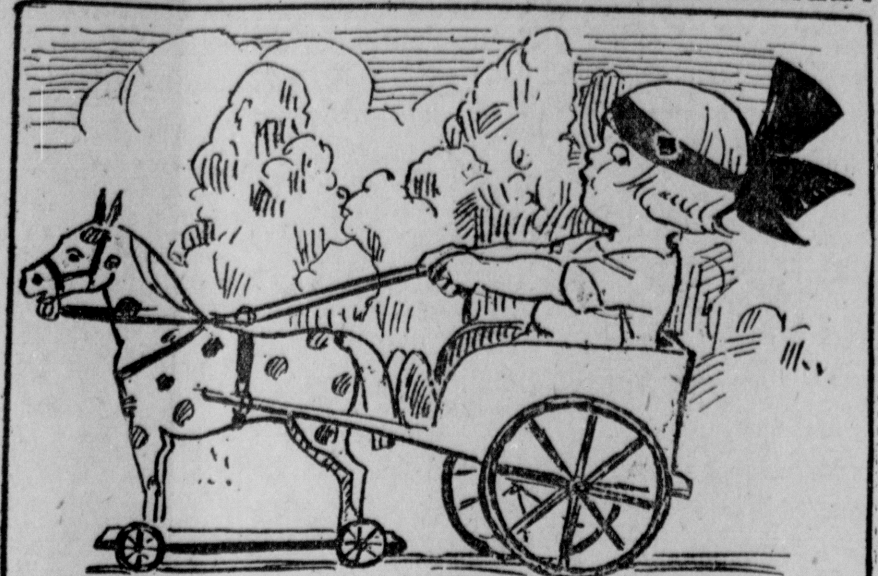

"Yes," replied Mr. Dustin Stax. "It's a case of wonderful salesmanship with nothing to sell."

A resn young man was pressing a gentleman, who evidently felt bored, to give him an illustration of the transmigration of souls, showing how a person's identity might be maintained. At last the old gentleman replied:

"Supposing you should die, your soul might appear in a canary bird; when the canary bird died it might reappear in a lion or a tiger; again, it might reappear in a jackass—and I might stroke its ear and say: 'My dear fellow, you have not changed a bit.'"

FESTIVAL PICTURES SENT TO XENIA FROM LANCASTER

Pictures taken of decorated floats and automobiles and especially attractive booths at the Fall Festival held at Lancaster recently by the Festival Production Company of Chillicothe, which will stage the Festival here next week, were received Wednesday at the Chamber of Commerce.

Lancaster was the first city on the festival circuit this fall, and with 2,200 feet of booth space sold, it started the series off with a record for success and achievement. The Festival is in Sidney this week, coming there from New Philadelphia. A telephone message from officials of the company Tuesday said that Sidney was prettily decorated and that the festival there was one of the best.

Wednesday morning a delegation of Xenia business men, headed by A. Moser, chairman of the retail affairs committee of the Chamber of Commerce left for Sidney where they will be entertained by Sidney merchants at the Festival and will get a first glimpse of what the Xenia Festival will be like. It will be impossible for a representative of the Production Company to get here this week but the company will arrive here about Sunday.

According to advance information the Farmers Day, Wednesday, is weekly one of the biggest days of the Festival. In that day an immense farmers' parade will be held and participated in by farmers on foot and on horseback, in automobiles, trucks, and wagons, decorated with any kind of farm produce. Prizes will be awarded for the best decorated floats and prizes also will be offered for the tallest man in the parade, the shortest man and the heaviest man.

Besides the band concerts that will take place on an open air platform and also in the automobile show, an orchestra will provide music for dancing in the open air pavilion to be erected in the street. Besides this dancing feature furnished by the Festival Company, McKay's Orchestra of Wilmington, will erect an open air pavilion in the empty lot owned by E. S. Foust on South Detroit Street next to the Gazette building, and there will also be indoor dancing at the Knights of Pythias Castle, Detroit and Second Streets.

Many lodges, clubs, churches and other organizations will have booths during the Festival, besides the merchants display booths, and with the producing company presenting many free acts and a promised "something doing all the time," the city looks forward to one of the gayest festivals ever held here.

CIVIL SERVICE EMPLOYEES TO CONVENE SOON

Washington.—The National Federation of Federal Employees, composed of Government employees, men and women, in every occupation, from the professions and sciences to charwomen and laborers, in every State and Territory of the United States, will hold its fifth annual convention in New Orleans September 12-16.

Every Government service is represented in the membership of the National Federation of Federal Employees which was organized "to advance the social and economic welfare and education of the employees of the United States and to aid in the perfection of systems that will make for greater efficiency in the various services of the United States."

The outstanding feature of the Federal programme is its campaign for the Lehlbach-Sterling bills, which provide for reclassification of the entire Civil Service on a strictly merit basis the elimination of politics from appointments and promotions and a standardized pay scale fixed according to the skill and training required for the job. The salary scale now in effect is based on standards of 1934.

Several hundred delegates are expected to attend the convention and there will be numbers of women among them. Three of the largest and most active organized groups are composed entirely of women, while several of the mixed locals have women presidents and secretaries who will be in attendance.

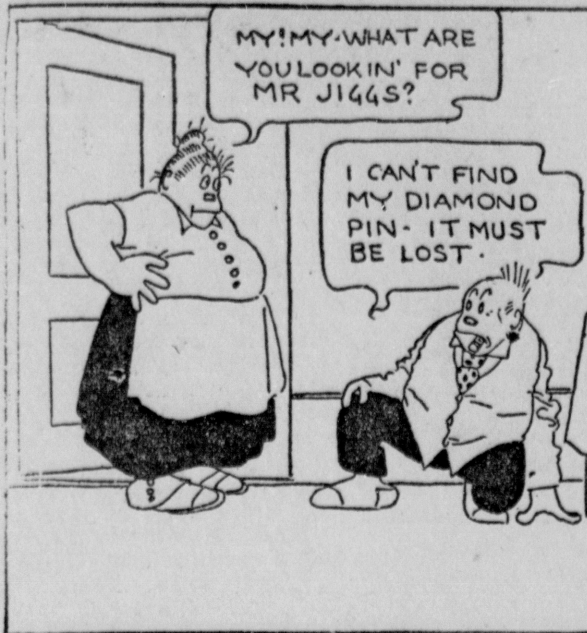

Preconvention session of the executive council of the Federation will be held in New Orleans, Sept. 1 and 17.

SUMMER PROFITABLE

Syracuse, N. Y.—Chester Myron, a sixteen-year-old lad of this city, recently spent a busy week saving lives at North Lake, in the Adirondacks. His Carnegie Hero medal, which has been recommended, will record the names of three women who would have been drowned had not Myron acted valiantly and quickly. Of the three was Myron's aunt who was about to go down the third time when the boy reached and rescued her. Miss May Weber, member of a wealthy Dayton Ohio, family, was exhausted and had disappeared under the surface when, fully dressed, Myron leaped into the water and brought Miss Weber to safety. The third rescue was performed with the same courage and quickness of action.

Efficient Housekeeping

HELPFUL LETTERS FROM READERS

Old Housekeeper: "I want other women to have my grandmother's old recipe for preserving Bartlett pears, which I use every year:

Chipped Pear: Peel, core, and cut into thin slices 8 pounds of Bartlett pears, weighing them after cutting them; put these chips into your preserving kettle with 6 pounds of sugar, 1 cup of water, the juice of 4 lemons and their rinds cut into thin strips, and 1-8 pound of ginger root or crystallized ginger, cut into small pieces. Let this mixture simmer until thick and brown, then turn into jelly glasses, let cool, and cover down with melted wax. (Do not try to use this recipe with Siskel pears.)"

Mrs. A.: "My children love this water ice, which I find very inexpensive to make: Mint-Raspberry Water Ice: Boil together for 8 minutes 1 quart of water and 1 pound of sugar. Remove it from the fire and add 1-3 cup of fresh mint leaves, 1 box of raspberries crushed, and the juice of 1 lemon. Let cool and set in ice box to chill. When very cold remove the mint, mix into the liquid the whites of 2 eggs which have been stiffly beaten, and turn it into a cold freezer. Freeze slowly until firm and smooth. I advise other mothers to try this for Sunday Dinner."

Mrs. G.: "Thank you for the recipe. Here is a hint you may be able to use in your column:

"My baby is in the habit of pulling off her stockings (like so many other babies!) so here is what I do: I pull on each little leg an arm cut from a sweater which was too tight in the armholes and which was therefore of no use as a sweater; this covers baby's legs but leaves the little feet uncovered so that she can play with her toes, the tops of these sleeve-stockings being pinned to her diaper. In cold weather I shall pull these feeble sleeve-stockings on over her

HORTENSE'S GOSSIP ANNOYS JOAN CHAPTER 20.

It is no wonder that Margaret occasionally had misgivings concerning the wisdom of her plans for Joan, yet on a whole it had worked out remarkably well; enough so that never once had she considered making any significant change in them. That the child's future was pregnant with possibilities because of her upbringing Margaret fully realized; possibilities of both right and wrong; of happiness and unhappiness. Yet she had faith in ancestry, in blood, in the inherent probity, descended through generations of right-living forebears, to believe that Joan would come through clean.

Joan had said nothing else. Margaret herself was a constant influence—through her conversation, her ideals, her reading—she proved a wholesome guide to right thinking on the part of the child. She met all the problems connected with Joan in such a spirit of fairness (her influence was so tactfully concealed) that Joan felt it was she herself who decided what was right and what was wrong. She never dreamed that she had decided through her mother.

The relations between Margaret and Joan at this time were peculiar to themselves—perhaps in a way unlike customary relationships existing between mother and daughter. Margaret loved Joan intensely. But added to that mother love was the feeling of responsibility for her unique bringing up; the intense following of Joan's mental processes;

Helen: "I got my husband's stenographer to type my name and address clearly on a small card. I carry this card when shopping and having the purchases sent home; in this way, goods are never mislaid, as the salesgirl can get my name and address more accurately when she reads them off the little card, than by word of mouth. And it saves time not having to tell her—and repeat it!"

the teacher-like attitude-camouflaged.

Joan too loved her mother devotedly. Yet she had adopted an air of criticism of superiority because of her non-reined youth and a feeling that her mother was "too old" to much behind the times to understand what was really suitable for her; and who often mistook her place in the world.

"My mother doesn't butt in!" she often said to the girls, yet she had felt of late that Margaret desired to "butt in" that she must be careful or her "Mumsie" would do something foolish or that would look foolish in one of Mumsie's age.

Soon after Craig Forrester left town, Hortense Thompson said to Joan:

"How do you like Craig Forrester, Joan?"

"Oh, I don't know! He is all right I guess. Why?" Then recalling that he had been Mrs. Thompson's guest she added: "He seemed nice at times."

"He liked your mother pretty well."

"Everyone likes Mumsie."

"Oh, I don't mean like that—same as everyone does."

"What do you mean then?"

"I heard him telling mother that she was the most charming woman he had met in a long time."

"Of course she is!" Joan returned emphatically.

"There isn't anyone in this old town like her, not even your mother though perhaps you think your mother is all right," Joan happened to think, just at this instant, of the conversation she and her mother had had a few days previous regarding Hortense and her Remarks.

Without a word Joan turned away from Hortense, and crossing the street, went on home alone regarding less of Hortense's call to "come on and walk home together!" She felt she needed to be alone to think. Then too she didn't intend to be friends with Hortense any more.

Tomorrow—Joan repeats Hortense's

Remarks.

How to Make Child-birth Easier!

DO YOU wish to know how thousands and thousands of women have gone thru motherhood without knowing some of the pains and discomforts incident to childbirth? Listen to this:

Motherhood creates almost a new state of being for a woman.

As a result, new nerves, those heretofore restful and quiescent, spring into activity, they cry out, they tingle, they burn in their unrest.

The network of nerves across the abdomen, the loins, the back and other parts now become super-sensitive. All these nerves are being called on to perform unusual duties.

These nerves must be pacified and comforted; must be put in condition for the crisis that is pending.

If these nerves are not soothed and quieted, they may set up aggravated nerve tension, increasing in severity from month to month, sometimes even culminating in a nervous paralysis of the back and limbs. This leaves the mother-to-be in a condition where she is unable, fully, to meet the test when the climax of maternity arrives.

WARNING: Avoid using plain oils, greases and substitutes—they act only on the skin and may cause harm without doing good.
